Questions

Jullian Hastings asks – AI is very important, how are we using it?

- a. We're looking for access, and what will prepare students? And how can we use AI in specific career paths? How to do things in an ethical manner?

Connie (from gallery) President of Art Club- Not as much space in the Art Building. They cannot use their areas as much, and there is only a few advertising places. Gallery needs to be revised.

Belle Hammes asks- five year plan for res living halls. He can't answer this.

Alex Timm asks- New General Education Changes, what does he think?

- a. He says that general education should be able to allow you to critically think. (he calls me out)

Alex Timm follows up- mis match of advisors?

- a. He says there is almost always a great advisor. They can help people. Forensics is a great class for critically thinking,

Cameron Meseke ask- within the education department, future plans?

- a. Hired new faculty for the education department. This has grown exponentially. First year's specifically. He's really thinking about financial asks and seeking a minute.
- Parliamentarian Durst moves to extend by 20 minutes.

Ethan Clark asks- English Major, record of Freshmen coming to Washburn. One of the concerns is that they have hired a new crop of teachers, and they have had to hire a lot of people to do a lot of things.

- a. They did not see it coming, so they're now trying to move resources.
Looking for new questions

Alex asks a third question- What is coming for school of applied studies?

- a. Applied studies has been ready for reaccreditation and he's looking forward for some improvements.

Alex asks a fourth question- Where are departments going?

- a. Looking for available spaces on campus, and folks in Benton are going to Mabee. He's really trying to still plan the details.

Belle Hammes asks if the final changes are on the timeline for the Major Maps

- a. No, People in his office

Jullian Hastings asks if the provost is planning on hosting events.

- a. He says he's open to any events for academic events.

Desiree Cain asks if he has any plans for underrepresented minors (diaspora studies, African studies).

- a. He hasn't worked too much on minors, he believes African Diaspora is very important. He says that underenrolled courses/minors are really important. He says that this representation is important, especially at a primary white institution. He's like to learn and be supportive.
